Communities of Strength

In tough times, communities find strength in people—and people find strength in their communities. In our community, older adults are a key source of this strength. Through their experiences, successes, and difficulties, they have built resilience that helps them to face new challenges. When communities tap into this, they become stronger too.

Each May, the Administration for Community Living leads the celebration of Older Americans Month. This year's theme is Communities of Strength, recognizing the important role older adults play in fostering the connection and engagement that build strong, resilient communities.

Here are some ways to share and connect:

- Look for joy in the everyday: Celebrate small moments and ordinary pleasures by taking time to recognize them. Start a gratitude journal and share it with others via social media, or call a friend or family member to share a happy moment or to say thank you.
- Reach out to neighbors: Even if you can't get together in person right now, you can still connect with your neighbors. Leave a small gift on their doorstep, offer to help with outdoor chores, or deliver a homecooked meal.
- Build new skills: Learning something new allows us to practice overcoming challenges. Take an art course online or try a socially distanced outdoor movement class to enjoy learning with others in your community. Have a skill to share? Find an opportunity to teach someone, even casually.
- Share your story: There's a reason storytelling is a time-honored activity. Hearing how others experience the world helps us grow. Interviewing family, friends, and neighbors can open up new conversations and strengthen our connections.

MAY | ARTHRITIS

AWARENESS MONTH

Arthritis is one of the most widespread health conditions in the United States and affects about one in four adults overall. That's over 54 million men and women. Arthritis limitations can include difficulties with moving and performing daily tasks, as well as social and work limitations – so what can we do?

- Use ice and heat
 Hot and cold may be opposites, but both can provide arthritis pain relief. Applying cold will reduce swelling and numb the area, while heat loosens up muscles, increasing flexibility, and circulation.
- Modify certain activities
 If an activity causes joint pain, change the way you do that activity. Continuing the activity despite pain can damage your joint, while skipping the activity altogether can lead to joint stiffness through lack of use – try to find balance between doing too much and too little.
- Add anti-inflammatory foods and nutrients to your diet
 Talk to your healthcare provider about adding more berries, fish, broccoli, avocados, green tea, bell and chili peppers, dark chocolate and tomatoes to your diet. Try to limit or avoid processed foods that promote inflammation, such as refined carbohydrates, fried foods, sugary beverages, processed meats and trans fats.
- Enroll in an evidence-based program
 Evidence based programs (EBP's) offer proven ways to promote health and prevent disease among adults. They are based on research and provide documented health benefits, so you can be confident they work. Older adults who participate in EBP's can improve long-term effects of chronic diseases – like pain from arthritis!

Volunteer Spotlight

← Terry Reddi

Terry Reddi has been a volunteer Meals on Wheels driver at Spectrum Generations' Lincoln County Resource Center since 2016. Throughout the challenges of COVID-19, Terry has continued his route, only missing one week the entire year. His route, a little farm town with no downtown or village, spreads throughout the country roads in Lincoln. His route is one of the longest routes we have and Terry is always there to get the job done. Terry is unflappable in any situation you throw at him. He takes safety seriously and strives to keep our consumers safe. We are truly thankful to have such a dedicated volunteer like him on our team.

UPCOMING PROGRAMS

Healthy Living for ME

Better Health NOW with Pain

This free, evidence based program is ideal for those who are experiencing a pain condition like arthritis. Some of the topics in this program include pacing and planning, medication management, the Moving Easy Program, and many others.

"While the tips, activities and information is all highly important, I most appreciated the sense of camaraderie I felt. Meeting weekly with the same small group of people, being led by the same folks made me feel like part of a group whose members all had similar ideas in joining the program."

– Healthy Living for ME class member, March 2021

Waldo Gardens → Enhance the Experience

Spectrum Generation wants your support to restore and improve our Waldo Community Center's outside patio area to enhance the experience for the Adult Day and Community Support consumers!

We plan to create a raised flower and garden beds to offer activity and education space for our consumers! The long-term benefits of gardening for older and disabled adults has been documented, and leads to increased communication and social skills, fitness, confidence, reducing stress and anxiety, nutrition, knowledge, doing something rewarding and therapeutic, improvement of eating habits, and sensory awareness[1]; it has also been scientifically proven that gardening lowers the risk of dementia[2]. The raised beds will be used for garden and nutrition activities throughout the year.
